

Greetings, sailor.

Word has reached Goldenbeard that ye have acquired one of the finest naval combat systems ever to sail these waters. Naturally, this is because I had a hand in it.

Ye are among the first crew to sail under these colors. That makes ye either extraordinarily lucky or extraordinarily foolish. The seas will decide which.

There are those who sail under the Queen's colors, fat and proud in their tin-hat navy, following orders and calling it honor. Then there are those who sail free wherever the wind in their sails takes them. I trust that ye will choose your own course wisely.

Find us on Instagram at @cannonsandcoastlines and show Goldenbeard what ye're made of. I shall be watching.

Sail true, aim truer.
